First, we gathered at the school’s entrance and boarded the school bus. When we arrived, our teacher gave us our tickets to enter the museum, where our tour guide, Miss Ivory, waited. We began the tour on the west side, where we heard all about Lafayette’s early years in military school. Later, we moved to east side, where we saw letters and objects that Lafayette possessed during his time in America. Finally, the tour ended at the central showroom, where Miss Ivory talked about Gilbert’s role in the French Revolution. We went back to school and wrote a paper about it.
